1. ITAT: IT services rendered in pursuance of royalty agreement, taxable in India; MFN clause benefit inapplicable

Outcome : In favor of revenue

Issue : Royalty, FTS, MFN clause

Background

The Income Tax Appellate Tribunal, Mumbai (ITAT) ruled that the IT services rendered by the Aktiebolaget SKF (assessee) in pursuance of the main royalty agreement was taxable in India as Fee for Technical services (FTS) as per the provisions of the Income Tax Act, 1961 (Act) as well as the India- Sweden tax treaty (tax treaty) since IT services rendered by assessee were subservient to royalty agreement and were ancillary and subsidiary to main royalty agreement entered into by both parties and hence, IT service agreement could not be construed as a separate and distinct agreement from main royalty agreement.

Brief facts and contentions

- Assessee, a Swedish company, entered into agreement with its Associated Enterprises (AEs) in relation to technology License agreement, Trademark License agreement and IT service delivery agreement. It excluded fee received for IT related services and training and support services from scope of taxation (earlier offered to tax) by way of a revised return of income on the ground that said income was in the nature of reimbursement of expenses and hence, not liable to tax in India.

  During scrutiny assessment, the Assessing Officer (AO) made the following observations :

  - The erstwhile two contracts of assessee were subsequently broken into three contracts but there was no change in the nature of functions and risks of the assessee with respect to the services rendered to its AEs and such income was being offered to tax during previous years
  - Receipts from IT related services had reduced during the year under consideration and hence, assessee was making available technical knowledge, skill etc. to the AEs, which resulted in fall of expenses. Hence, the services were in the nature of FTS, which made available technical knowledge/ experience/skill or process
  - The services were rendered in pursuance of royalty agreement and required application of mainframe and non-mainframe computer servers and communication devices. The services rendered were in the nature of scientific, commercial and industrial knowledge and experience and in order to access the information, the AEs were required to have compatible systems/software installed in their premises and hence, were construed as FTS by AO
- The Dispute Resolution Panel (DRP) ruled in favor of revenue and consequently, assessee preferred an appeal before the ITAT

ITAT's Judgement

ITAT ruled that IT related services rendered by the assessee to its AEs were taxable in India as FTS as per the Act and tax treaty. Key observations are as follows :

- Perusing the terms of agreements between the parties, it was apparent that the required technology and up-gradation were to be transmitted through IT infrastructure and for the same, assessee had an elaborate computer network setup for its group through which the technical information was being transmitted
- Moreover, it was noted that the assessee would disclose and make available to the AE, any modification or improvement of the technology intangibles developed by the assessee and same would be included under the scope of the Agreement and would become part of the technology intangible, as defined without an increase in license fee. Further, AEs were required to manufacture the products and operate business in accordance with the technology intangibles and instructions provided by the assessee

- With respect to assessee's contention that the extent of software formed a small portion of the overall quantum of services and accordingly, it could not be considered as a part of integrated services, ITAT opined that the services rendered in the IT segment or the services connected with training were integrally linked with the royalty agreement entered into by the assessee with its AE and both were inseparable
- Hence, it was opined that the IT service agreement was subservient and ancillary to the main royalty agreement and was same attracted taxation in India in view of the provisions of the Act and the tax treaty
- Regarding the applicability of Most Favored Nation (MFN) clause, ITAT considered the definition of FTS as stipulated under India-Portugal tax treaty and India-USA tax treaty and opined that both these treaties contain two limbs for taxation of FTS and before applying the second limb, the assessee has to exhaust the first limb. In the instant case, the services formed part of the first limb (being subsidiary and ancillary to the royalty agreement) and were encompasses in the first limb, making second limb inapplicable and services taxable in India

Nangia Andersen LLP's Take

As the new facets of issues pertaining to taxation of royalty and FTS income continue to unravel, this ruling is yet another insightful addition to the pile. The ITAT has laid down that if services rendered by assessee are subservient and ancillary to main royalty agreement entered into by both parties and both the agreements are inseparable, the service agreement shall not be treated as separate and distinct agreement from main royalty agreement and hence, would attract taxation in India. This ruling has also revealed a different aspect of applicability of MFN clause.

Past precedents on the issue

- In a recent decision[1], delivered by Mumbai ITAT, management fees received by US Co. (assessee) from its Indian counterpart was held as not taxable as FTS under Article 12(4) of the India-USA tax treaty, and it was observed that the services rendered by the assessee entailed provision of support services in advising the entities globally on policies and standards based on international best practices support in terms of IT, financial functions, and other business support services. Moreover, the services in question were independent services on standalone basis, and in the absence of 'make available' condition, Article 12(4)(a) was rendered inapplicable.
- However, in the instant case, the IT related services were subservient and ancillary to main royalty agreement and were crucial to the rendering of services to the AEs, making it an inseparable agreement. Transmission of information under the royalty agreement entailed use of mainframe systems which required IT support services to be rendered from time to time, make it a vital part of main royalty agreement

2. ITAT: FTS received by a Philippine based company not taxable in India

Outcome : In favor of assessee

Category : Fee for Technical Services (FTS)

Background

The Income Tax Appellate Tribunal, Visakhapatnam (ITAT) ruled that income received by Paramina Earth Technologies Inc (assessee), being in the nature of Fee for Technical Services (FTS), would not be taxable in India in the absence of separate provisions in respect of taxation of FTS in the India- Philippines tax treaty (tax treaty). Moreover, the taxation of the said receipts as business profits was denied since the assessee did not have any Permanent Establishment (PE) in India

Brief facts and contentions

- Assessee, a foreign company having expertise in mining activity, was engaged by TCL to recruit skilled and experienced employees for mining, at mines situated at Rajasthan and received retainer fee from TCL towards rendition of such recruitment services
- The assessee claimed that all the services with respect to identifying the persons suitable for employment by TCL were performed in Philippines and the payments with respect to services rendered were received in Philippines. Moreover, the persons identified officially were not the employees of the assessee but were subject to the supervision and control of TCL and their services could also be terminated by TCL. Further, their entire salaries were also borne by TCL.
- It was contended that the assessee did not have PE in India and therefore, amount received by assessee for manpower recruitment services should not be brought to tax as business income as per Article 7 of the tax treaty. Further, in the absence of a separate article for FTS in the tax treaty, the retainer fees received by assessee for services rendered to TCL in Philippines should not be brought to tax in India as FTS under section 9(1)(vii) of the Act.
- The Assessing Officer (AO) observed that the assessee initially deducted tax u/s 195 after grossing up of tax @21.115% on remittances made to assessee by TCL and later on revised TDS return. Further, the AO opined that the case law1 relied upon by the assessee was distinguishable since in that case, the work was carried out in Philippines and no employees of IBM Philippines had travelled to India to perform any of the functions and there was no PE of IBM Philippines in India
- Placing reliance on the case of TVS Electronics and CBDT Circular2, the AO noted that payments made by TCL to assessee were to be treated as FTS and taxable u/s 9(1)(vii) of the Act in the hands of assessee
- Aggrieved by the decision of commissioner of Income Tax (Appeals), assessee preferred an appeal before the ITAT

[1]IBM India (P.) Ltd. v. Dy. DIT International Taxation (IT) Appeal Nos. 489 to 498 Bang of 2013 dated 24-1-2014

[2]Decision of Dy. CIT v. TVS Electronics Ltd. [2012] 22 taxmann.com 215 (Chennai Tribunal) and CBDT Circular No. 333 [F.No.506/42/81-FTD] dated 2-4-1982

ITAT's Judgement

- The ITAT ruled that retainer fee received by assessee from TCL towards rendition of manpower recruitment services would not be taxable in India as FTS. Key observations are as follows :
- Section 9(1)(vii) is relevant for the payments made by the non-resident, but not the resident. In the instant case, the payment was made by the resident to non-resident, therefore, the CIT(A) misunderstood the provisions of section 9(1)(vii)(c). Further, the circular2 was related to computation of income, but not the classification of income. Hence, the circular also cannot help assess FTS as separate source of income.
- Referring to the provisions of the tax treaty and relying upon the case of IBM India (P.) Ltd1, it was opined that in the absence of express provisions to tax FTS in DTAA, the same shall be taxable as business profits under Article 7 of the tax treaty, provided there exists a PE in the contracting state.
- The ITAT outlined that in the case of ABB FZ-LLC[3], it was held that the absence of the provision in the DTAA is not an omission but is a deliberate mutual agreement between the contracting states not to recognize/classify any income as Fees for Technical Services for taxation. Once the income chargeable to tax as per the tax treaty have been categorized by excluding FTS, then the scope of taxing the said income could not be expanded by importing the said provision from the Act
- It was noted that, in the instant case, the payment was required to be taxed as business profits under Article 7 of the tax treaty, and in the absence of PE of assessee in India, same could not be brought to tax in India

This ruling is a fair enunciation of the fact that in the event of no separate provision in the tax treaty to tax FTS, income would be taxed as business profits in accordance with Article 7 of tax treaty but, in absence to PE in India, same could not be taxed in India as business profits. The court has fairly followed the past tradition of according the benefit of more beneficial provisions- either the tax treaty provisions or the Act provisions, as applicable to the assessee.

Past precedents on the issue

On Similar lines, in a recent decision[4], the Bangalore Tribunal ruled in favor of the assessee wherein payments made by assessee to a Philippines based company towards rendition of game moderation services, being in the nature of FTS, were held to be non-taxable in India in the absence of PE of assessee in India.

3. SC: Activities performed by the UAE based entity from a fixed place of business in India, not taxable in India

Outcome : In favor of assessee

Issue : Permanent Establishment

Background

The Hon'ble Supreme Court (SC) ruled that activities performed by the Liaison Office (LO), set-up by U.A.E. Exchange Centre (assessee) in India were 'preparatory and auxiliary' in nature. Further, the assessee's Liaison Office (LO) in India did not constitute a Permanent Establishment (PE), in view of Article 5 of the India- UAE Tax Treaty (DTAA). It opined that the transactions were concluded in UAE and the consideration for said transactions was also received in UAE and LO did not contribute in profit making objective of the assessee.

Brief facts and contentions

- The assessee, a UAE based entity, was offering remittance services for transfer of monies from UAE to various places in India. In order to facilitate the said purpose, it had opened LO in India under a license granted by the RBI.
- In pursuance of the contracts entered into between the NRI remitters and the assessee, NRIs handed over their funds to the assessee at any of its centers or outlets in UAE, which were transmitted to the beneficiaries of the NRI remitters in India, either by telegraphic transfer through normal banking channels via banks in India or by involving its LO in India
- The route directed through LO, entailed downloading particulars of remittances by using computers (connected to the servers in the UAE) in India, by the LO, drawing cheques on banks in India and dispatching the same to the beneficiaries of the NRI remitters in India. One-time commission was charged by the assessee from the NRI remitters in the UAE only.
- The assessee plead that the services rendered by the LO in India would not be taxable in India since the services were 'preparatory or auxiliary' in nature, and same were governed by the exclusionary provision contained in Article 5(3)(e) of the DTAA.
- In 2003 the assessee sought advance ruling, enquiring whether any income accrued/ deemed to accrue in India from the activities carried by the company in India

Order set forth by the Authority for Advance Ruling (AAR)

- The AAR noted that the activities performed by LO were vital in completion of the transaction of remittance in terms of contracts entered into by assessee with NRIs. Hence, such activities contributed (directly or indirectly) to the earning of income by the petitioner by way of commission.
- In respect of the monies transmitted by telegraphic transfer through banking channels, the role of the LO in India was of an 'auxiliary' character, as in that case the LO had no role to play except attending to complaints.
- It was opined that LO of the assessee in India constituted a PE in India, on account of the fact that downloading data, preparing cheques and remitting the amount through couriers is significant to the completion of the contract with the NRIs.
- It was held that income would be deemed to accrue or arise to the assessee in the UAE from its' LO in India. Based on said ruling, the department issued notices under section 148 of the Act to the assessee.
- Aggrieved, the assessee preferred an appeal before the High Court (HC).

Order set forth by the HC

- The activity carried on by the LOs in India, did not contribute directly or indirectly, to the earning of profits or gains by the assessee in UAE as every aspect of the transaction was concluded in UAE and the commission for the said services of remittances offered by the assessee was also earned in the UAE.
- Hence, it was held that the activities performed by the LOs in India were only supportive of the transaction carried on in the UAE and should be characterized as 'preparatory and auxiliary'. Resultantly, there would be no constitution of PE in India.

SC's Judgement

- The SC ruled in favor of the assessee that activities performed by the LO in India were 'preparatory and auxiliary' in nature and would not attract any tax liability in India. Key observations are as follows :
- Perusing the conditions laid down by the RBI while granting permission for setting up LO in India, the SC noted that the RBI directed the assessee to abstain from engaging in any primary business activity and in establishing business connection as such. However, it was permitted to carry preparatory or auxiliary activities.
- Moreover, the assessee did not carry on any business activity in India as such, but only dispensed with the remittances by performing auxiliary activities as per the instructions given by the NRI remitters in UAE. The transactions had completed in UAE, and no charges towards fee/commission were to be collected by the LO in India in that regard.
- Resultantly, it was opined that the fixed place used by the assessee as LO in India would not qualify as PE in terms of Articles 5(1) and 5(2) of the DTAA as its activities would fall within the ambit of 'preparatory and auxiliary' clause (exclusionary clause) as per Article 5(3) of the DTAA.
- Resultantly, no tax could be levied or collected from the LO of the assessee in India in respect of the primary business activities concluded by the respondent in UAE
- SC remarked that even if the stated activities of the LO were regarded as business activity, the same being of 'preparatory or auxiliary' character by virtue of Article 5(3)(e) of the DTAA, the fixed place of business (LO) of the assessee in India (otherwise a PE) would be deemed to be expressly excluded from being so. And since by a legal fiction it is deemed not to be a PE of the respondent in India, it would not be amenable to tax liability in terms of Article 7 of the DTAA

Nangia Andersen LLP's Take

Such judgements instill the faith of the taxpayers in the judiciary that a benefit under the law shall not be denied to genuine taxpayers. The Courts shall go into the details of the transaction to conclude the matter of taxability. In this case, the Supreme Court specifically took note of the restrictions imposed by the RBI and noted that the LO in India was not undertaking any activity of commercial nature and concluded that the maintenance of fixed place of business solely for the purpose of carrying on any activity of preparatory and auxiliary character, shall not constitute a PE.

Past precedents on the issue

In the case of Hitachi Singapore[1], the ITAT observed that the LO was actively involved in ascertaining customer requirements, price negotiation, obtaining of purchase orders, following up on delivery of material and payments and the only activity not carried out, was receiving payments and invoicing. None of these activities can be classified as Preparatory and auxiliary.

Similarly, in case of GE Energy Parts[2], it was held that the LO was involved in contract and price negotiation, modification of technical specifications and the negotiations for it, to fulfil local needs and regulatory requirements. These were held to be in the nature of core activities and not merely auxiliary.

Therefore, it can be concluded that LO/BO/PO/WOS can constitute PE, if the activities are beyond P&A.

4. ITAT: Income earned through rendering 'Technical Handling Services' through pool participation, not taxable in India

Outcome : In favor of assessee

Issue : Taxability of 'Technical Handling service' income as FTS

Background

The Income Tax Appellate Tribunal, Delhi (ITAT) ruled that income earned by Air France (assessee) through rendition of 'technical handling' services to other International Airlines Technical Pool (IATP) members would not be taxable in India in view of Article 8 of the Indo- France Tax treaty (tax treaty).

Brief facts and contentions

- Assessee, a foreign company and a tax resident of France, is engaged in the operation of aircraft in international traffic. During the year under consideration, the assessee claimed its income earned in India, in entirety, as exempt from income tax under section 90 of the Income Tax Act, 1961 (Act) and filed a nil income tax return
- Assessing Officer (AO) was of the view that, as per the agreements produced, the services (claimed by the assessee to be in the nature of 'Technical handling services') were in the nature of 'Ground handling services' and were being rendered to IATP members as well as non-members. He thus taxed the same as FTS under section 115A read with Section 44D at the rate of 20%.
- The assessee submitted that no ground handling activity was undertaken and only technical handling service was provided to IATP members or guest airlines covered under the IATP Pool, which were exempt from tax under tax treaty.
- AO noted that the assessee did not receive any reciprocal services in India and considering the scale of activities both inside as well as outside India and the collaborations with KLM & Air France Ground Handling Pvt. Ltd. to provide the services and facilities, it was an independent commercial and business activity which was in no way ancillary or connected to the business in the operation of aircraft as defined by Article 8(4) of the tax treaty
- AO's findings were upheld by the Commissioner of Income Tax (Appeals) [CIT(A)]. Consequently, assessee preferred an appeal before the ITAT

ITAT's Judgement

ITAT ruled that income earned by the assessee through operation of aircrafts in international traffic and rendering of 'Technical Handling services' to IATP members/ non-members would not qualify as income eligible for taxation in India. Key observations are as follows:

- The Indian branch office was merely a branch office of assessee that remitted entire receipts to assessee after deducting local expenses and all its income arose from public at large and not through rendering of services to the assessee. Also, no specific services were agreed upon between the assessee and branch office. Hence, the assessee did not have any Permanent Establishment (PE) in India
- Referring to the terms of IATP manual, ITAT pointed out that there was no restriction on rendering services to non-IATP members by member airline and if non-IATP Pool members took such services from a pool, it was to be considered as a pool service to them
- Perusing the terms of Article 8 of the tax treaty, which provides that profits derived by an enterprise of a Contracting State from the operation of aircraft in international traffic and through participation in a pool shall be taxable only in that Contracting State, ITAT elucidated that in the instant case, the contracting state was France and though under domestic law the assessee was liable to pay tax in India while deriving income from Indian territory, Air France would be exempted to pay any tax in India in view of Article 8(2) of the tax treaty as its services/activities and profit thereof is derived from pool participation

This ruling is a cogent demonstration of taxation of receipts derived from operation of aircrafts in international traffic and pool participation. The ITAT has given prime concern to the agreement between the parties (IATP manual) and the provisions of tax treaty while deciding the issue in favor of the assessee. Moreover, it has been explicated that where the agreement allows for rendering of services to non-IATP members, tax benefit shall be turned in favor of assessee. Noteworthy observation penned down by the ITAT in this ruling is that, though an income is taxable in India in view of the domestic laws, the indemnity provided to assessee via tax treaty shall always prevail.

Past precedents on this issue

Assessee[1] had a separate engineering set up in all metropolitan cities and engineers certified airworthiness of aircraft of certain other airlines before their take-off, for which payments were made on per-flight basis and same was being cleared through IATA clearance house for services rendered in India. AO was of view that income from aforesaid activities accrued and arose in India and was, therefore, taxable in India

It was opined that assessee had a separate establishment and a separate office set-up to monitor ground handling services, and the different establishment did not form part and parcel of the operation of assessee pertaining to operation of aircrafts in international traffic. Services and facilities provided by assessee was a commercial activity, and excess or idle capacity was provided to other airlines at a price. Moreover, assessee had a branch in India, which constituted a PE in India, and therefore, the income derived from the PE was taxable in India

Rendering services to other airlines was an organized and planned activity to earn income though rendering of such services by assessee to own aircraft did not involve any taxable event, but imparting same to other airlines did result in taxable income from a planned commercial activity which was not exempt under Article 8 of India-UK tax treaty.

Transfer Pricing

1. High Court upholds ITAT's exclusion of functionally dissimilar comparables; also enlightens that application of filters to be inevitably validated from Annual Reports of Comparables

Outcome : In favour of taxpayer

Category : Relevance of FAR; Functional Similarity/ Dissimilarity

Facts of the case

- Open Solutions Software Services Pvt Ltd ("the taxpayer") is engaged in the business of development of computer software and related services. It provides software development, research and other services specifically to its Associated Enterprises ("AEs").
- During the year under consideration, the taxpayer has entered into International transactions with its AEs for rendering of services related to software development amounting to INR 384,088,682.
- The taxpayer benchmarked the above-mentioned transaction using Transactional Net Margin Method ("TNMM") and computed Profit Level Indicator ("PLI") at 11.87% which was close to the arithmetic mean of PLI of 11.91% of the 14 comparable companies, selected for the purpose of benchmarking the transaction and accordingly, the transaction was undertaken at Arm's Length Price ("ALP") by the taxpayer.
- During the assessment proceedings, TPO carried out fresh economic analysis and selected 21 comparables. The arithmetic mean of PLI of transactions entered by these comparables was computed to be 27.86% by TPO and consequently, an addition of INR 54,905,106 was made by TPO.
- Aggrieved by the same, the taxpayer filed an appeal before the Dispute Resolution Panel ("DRP") for exclusion of 4 comparables. The DRP partially allowed by reducing the adjustment amount to INR 35,952,769, however sustained the inclusion of above-mentioned comparables.
- Aggrieved by the same, the taxpayer filed an appeal before the Income Tax Appellant Tribunal ("ITAT").

Proceedings before the ITAT and High Court

- ITAT made the following observations in the context of selection of comparables:

Comparable Name	ITAT's Observations
Infosys Ltd.	To be excluded on the ground of functionally dissimilarity as diversified profile, high risk bearing entity and consisting high brand value and intangibles. Whereas, the taxpayer is risk mitigated captive service provider.
Wipro Technology Services Ltd.	To be excluded on the ground of high Related Party Transaction.
Persistent Systems Ltd.	To be excluded on the ground of absence of segmental information.
Thirdware Solutions and Sales Ltd.	To be excluded as comparable on the ground of functional dissimilarity as well as absence of segmental information.

In view of above, ITAT allowed the taxpayer's appeal and excluded the above mentioned comparables. Aggrieved by the Tribunal's Ruling, the Revenue filed an appeal before the Hon'ble High Court ("HC").

- At the outset, HC reiterated the importance of functional similarity as provided in Rule 10B (2) of the IT Rules while selecting comparables for the benchmarking of an international transaction from arm's length perspective.

- Further, HC relied on a catena of precedents including co-ordinate bench rulings in case of Rampgreen Solutions Pvt. Ltd. v. CIT,[2015] 60 taxmann.com 355 (Delhi), Chryscapital Investment Advisors (India) Pvt. Ltd. v DCIT,[2015] 56 taxmann.com 417 to stress that while applying the TNMM also, comparables cannot be picked on the basis of broad classification under various heads, and that the actual functional profile of the comparable must be similar with that of the taxpayer.

- Lastly, HC explains that the filters are applied to narrow down the search to find the comparables that are closest to the taxpayer and the use of filters has to be necessarily validated from the annual reports. In this regard, HC also added that "if the TPO would have done this exercise on the basis of the actual data in the report of the comparables, he would surely have the freedom to adopt or reject the comparables."

  In view of the aforementioned observations, HC concluded that the test of functional similarity applied by the Tribunal is in consonance with the legal position and accordingly upheld the case against the Revenue and in favour of the taxpayer.

Nangia Andersen LLP's Take

This judgement adds to the plethora of judgements, highlighting procedures to be followed for the purpose of selection of comparables while benchmarking an International transaction from arm's length perspective as embodied in Indian Transfer Pricing Regulations.

The instant ruling also reiterated that the FAR analysis of the comparables is a first and foremost step to be undertaken for the purpose of benchmarking, irrespective of the fact that which method is adopted by the taxpayer for benchmarking the said transactions.

Further, the ruling also stresses on the fact that merely passing the filter shall not result in a comparable becoming immune to challenge by the taxpayer and explains that use of such filters have to necessarily be validated from the annual reports.

2. ITAT held that re-characterising payment of maintenance services relating to software licenses as technical services unreasonable citing rule of consistency

Outcome : In the favour of taxpayer

Category : Principle of aggregation and Rule of Consistency

Facts of the case

- Parametrics Technology Private Limited ("taxpayer") was engaged in the business of marketing of software license of its Associated Enterprise ("AE"), sales support service, maintenance of software, consulting and training activities.
- During the year under consideration i.e. Assessment Year 2011-12, the taxpayer has purchased software licences from its AE viz. PTC, USA for resale in India. The taxpayer has also entered maintenance services with its customers who purchased the software licenses.
- The taxpayer had remitted 40% of sales revenue and maintenance charges collected from its customers to its AE and benchmarked these closely linked transactions on aggregate basis using Transactional Net Margin Method ("TNMM").
- During the course of assessment proceedings, the Transfer Pricing Officer ("TPO") accepted the TNMM method adopted by the taxpayer used for benchmarking the transaction of payment made towards purchase of software licenses and held the same to be at arm's length. However, the TPO was of the view that the payment of 40% of maintenance services relating to software licenses as excessive and re-characterised the same as technical services. Further, the TPO benchmarked the said transaction using Profit Split Method ("PSM") and determined that the revenue from the maintenance services should be allocated ratio between the taxpayer and its AE in the ratio of 90:10 based on the nature of functions performed by them. Therefore, the TPO determined Arm's Length Price ("ALP") of payment of maintenance services at 10% of revenue realisation and accordingly, made an upward adjustment.
- Aggrieved by the same, taxpayer filed objections before the Dispute Resolution Panel ("DRP"), wherein the DRP upheld the addition proposed by TPO.
- Aggrieved by the same, taxpayer filled an appeal before the Income Tax Appellate Tribunal ("ITAT"/ "the tribunal").

ITAT Ruling

- ITAT opined that the TPO was not justified in viewing maintenance services as separate from the distribution activity as both the activities are inter-linked.
- ITAT noted that the taxpayer's benchmarking using TNMM method by aggregating both the transactions has been accepted by the TPO in the immediately preceding and succeeding years.
- ITAT also noted that the taxpayer has placed reliance on the Hon'ble Supreme Court ruling in the case of Radhasoami Satsang vs. CIT [1992] (193 ITR 321) wherein the taxpayer submitted that the principle of consistency is to be followed by the tax authorities.
- Accordingly, ITAT disregarded the TPO's approach and directed TPO to compute the ALP of both the transactions on aggregate basis using TNMM method.

Nangia Andersen LLP's Take

The verdict in the instant case reiterates the fact that the results of the transfer pricing assessments should be consistent and not unnecessarily varied by the tax authorities unless there is a significant change in the business or international transactions undertaken by the taxpayer.

Further, the verdict in the instant case also reiterates the fact that Aggregation of transactions or 'blended Transaction approach' is a wide-spread exercise for benchmarking the transactions when the transactions are closely interlinked.

M/s Anil Kumar Agrawal (AR No. KAR ADRG 30/2020) dated 04.05.2020

- Delhi High Court allows transition of pre-GST Credit to GST till 30 June 2020

- The hon'ble Delhi High Court while dealing with the issue of transition of credit to GST held that the term technical difficulties cannot be restricted only to a difficulty faced by or on the part of the Respondent. It would also include within its purview any difficulties faced by the taxpayers as well. Just like respondent, petitioners also require time to adapt to a new system. The CENVAT credit which was accrued and vested is the property of the assessee and is a constitutional right under Article 300A of the Constitution. The same cannot be taken away merely by way of delegated legislation by framing rules, without there being any overarching provision in the GST Act.

- Section 140(1) of CGST Act enables a registered person to carry forward the ITC accumulated as on 30th June 2017. Since Section 140 does not provide statements related to the consequences in case of delayed filing of TRAN-1, rule 117 needs to be read and understood as a directory but not mandatory. Accordingly, the time limit prescribed under GST law is procedural and directory and cannot affect the substantive right of the registered taxpayer.

- The Revenue has challenged the decision of Delhi High Court by filing a Special Leave Petition (SLP) before the Supreme Court.

Glass partitions are movable property and addition or fixing of glass partitions does not amount to construction of immovable property. Accordingly, input tax credit of taxes paid will be eligible on glass partition.

M/s WeWork India Management Private Limited [Order No. KAR/AAAR-17/2019-20 dated 06.03.2020]

- Delhi High Court quashes restriction on rectification of 'same period' return

- Issue involved - Whether Circular No. 26/26/2017 stating that GSTR-3B can be corrected only in the month in which errors have been noticed is in line with the statutory provisions of the CGST Act

- The court observed that the scheme envisaged under the CGST Act provided for a facility to reconcile the monthly data through the IT system of the Government. If the statutorily prescribed returns viz., GSTR-2 and GSTR-3 had been operationalized, the Petitioner would have known the correct ITC available to it in the relevant period and could have discharged its liability through ITC. GSTR-3B is required to be filed manually and does not provide various checks as envisaged in the Act. Para 4 of the relevant circular is not in consonance with the provisions of Act and accordingly High Court permitted the petitioner to rectify GSTR-3B filed during the relevant period.

Bharti Airtel Limited Vs Union of India & Ors. (Delhi High Court); W.P. No. 6345/2018 dated 05/05/2020

- Tamil Nadu Authority of Advance Ruling (AAR) ruled that the supply of DVDs and CDs with Licensed Software cannot be treated as e-books

- Vide Notification No. 13/2018-Central Tax (Rate) dated 26.07.2018 GST rate on e-book was reduced to 5%. The Applicant wanted to understand if it can avail the benefit of this lower tax rate for supply of DVDs and CDs with Licensed Software.

- The Authority held that the DVD supplied by The Law Weekly Desktop Software is not an electronic version of print journals. If they were, it would be machine readable files in any format such as .doc, .txt,. .pdf. It further held that supply of DVDs/CDs & dongle with access for an initial subscription period is composite supply. Wherein there is a supply of DVD/CD & Dongle and the loaded software (regarded as Goods) along with license to use the same for a limited period (regarded as service). Accordingly, the authority denied the benefit of lower tax rate for supply of DVDs/CDs.
